

Jewels of the Earth

The moon glistens

Among all the millions of stars

Like an extraordinary pearl out of an oyster shell

Washed up along the seashore

The moon like a pearl

Shares its beauty

With the world

Both catch one's eye

With their creamy white color and perfect texture

And you ponder if a grain of sand or a seed

Could ever become as beautiful as the moon or a pearl

The moon and the pearl

A pure piece of nature, a jewel to the earth

One true sentence: The moon shines like a jewel.
